Richard Kaufman

RICHARD KAUFMAN

Richard Kaufman has devoted much of his musical life to conducting and supervising music for film and television productions, as well as performing film and classical music in concert halls and on recordings. The 2016–2017 season marks his 11th season with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra concert series CSO at the Movies and his 26th season as principal pops conductor of Pacific Symphony. He holds the permanent title of pops conductor laureate with the Dallas Symphony.

In May of 2015, Kaufman made his conducting debut with the Boston Pops Orchestra, substituting for John Williams at the Annual Pops Film Night, and Williams graciously invited Kaufman to share the podium at the annual Tanglewood Film Night in August 2016. In July, two days before its official theatrical release, Kaufman conducted the San Diego Symphony in a live performance of Michael Giacchino's new score for Star Trek Beyond, accompanying the film in its gala world premiere.

Kaufman regularly appears as a guest conductor with symphony orchestras throughout both the United States and around the world including those in Cleveland, Atlanta, London, Liverpool, the RTE Concert Orchestra in Dublin, Indianapolis, San Diego, and the Royal Scottish National Orchestra. In addition to conducting traditional concert presentations, Kaufman often leads performances of complete film scores in concert, synchronizing the music to the actual film as it is shown on the screen above the orchestra. These legendary film titles include Singin' in the Rain, The Wizard of Oz, Psycho, Casablanca, The Bride of Frankenstein, Pirates of the Caribbean, Silverado, Raiders of the Lost Ark, E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial, Amadeus, Star Trek, and various silent films. Kaufman received the 1993 Grammy Award for Best Pop Instrumental Performance.

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

MISSOURI AMERICAN WATER

Missouri American Water, a subsidiary of American Water, is the largest investor-owned water utility in the state, providing high-quality and reliable water and wastewater services to approximately 1.5 million people, including more than 1 million in the St. Louis region.

Cheryl Norton, president of Missouri American Water

Missouri American Water is sponsoring these performances of Singin' in the Rain. Why do you believe in supporting the orchestra?

Missouri American Water's sponsorship of Singin' in the Rain aligns well with our efforts to draw attention to the importance of clean water. Most people take for granted that with a flick of their tap, clean, safe water will flow. We want people to understand all the work and infrastructure investment that goes into making that possible. The Symphony's performance of Singin' in the Rain gives us the opportunity to reach a new audience with this message.

What kind of work goes into making clean water available and affordable?

Missouri American Water spends more than $60 million annually in St. Louis County to maintain a system that pulls water from nearby rivers, cleans it, pumps it through a network of more than 4,200 miles of pipe, into your home or office where you can consume it with confidence that it's clean and safe. We take pride in delivering the only utility that is ingested, and we hope our partnership with the St. Louis Symphony helps more people understand the importance of clean water and the work required to deliver it.
